I highly recommend Mobile Reality for any digital projects you need to be executed efficiently and within a timely fashion.

The Mobile Reality team was responsible for creating modules for:

- event management
- articles tagging
- newsletters and articles indexing and organization.

An important feature for us was the creation of PDFs for emailing needs. The PDF generation was processed using LATEX language and the fine complex details were built to a high degree of accuracy. Mobile Reality's strengths are complemented by its company's software developers' skills and passion. I value Mobile Reality's creativity and innovative thinking not only in a working process but also in relation to the strong communication and reliable customer service support they offered.

I strongly recommend Mobile Reality as a solid and high-level software development partner for everyone. I will definitely contact them for any future development needs.
